“Dazzling” – Contra Costa Times

“Perfect Interpreter for Gershwin” – SF Chronicle

“Spectacular” – Sun Times

My concerts are very much appreciated and can reverse your apathy instantly but one of my many journalist friends wrote me about the apathy among the California public in general:

Artists are not appreciated at all. Unless a winetasting is tagged on to an art show, a vineyard happening to a “music” event, or a dreary, bland story about grapes and the “Spirit of Sonoma County” no one cares. It’s all about marketing. The entire county of Sonoma is too practical, bent on fiscal marketing matters, nothing esoteric, or interesting—everything is for sale—and not very artistic. Combined with the shocking statistic of 44 million functioning illiterates in the US, I doubt many people know what classical music means. It’s about Blockbusters, sports, and sex, and alcohol and that's about it!

You are cordially invited out of this picture and
